Family Communication and Children's Mental Health

2024 Social Connectedness of Youth Convenings

Our first convening will focus on the importance of family conversations in building good mental health.

Wednesday, January 17
12 - 1:15 pm
Virtual

What you can expect in this convening:

- The why – we'll look at data that shows why it is important for families to share ideas and talk about things that matter.
- Learn from others – in small group discussions you'll hear from others what they are seeing in their communities regarding family conversations. Come ready to share!
- Meet others and network – connect with others in your area and share best practices.

We want to inspire local work on social connectedness of youth.

This convening is open to anyone in Wisconsin concerned about children's mental health and building strong families.

Feel free to share this invitation.
